Miami Project 5

Miami Beach, Florida - December 4, 2016 - Miami Project 5 closed Sunday, December 4 after four successful days at its new location at 6625 Indian Creek Drive in Miami Beach. Built into an expansive existing structure steps from the co-located NADA Miami, Miami Project 5 was a boutique, highly curated experience featuring twenty top galleries from around the world. The must-attend art fair was buzzing with important collectors, curators, and art world professionals with important acquisitions made across the board.

Miami Project 5 was an intimate fair that featured an important group of top galleries including a renowned list of returning exhibitors joined by a slate of exciting newcomers making their Miami Project debut. Highlights include London-based Rebecca Hossack Art Gallery, New York's ACA Galleries and Gary Snyder Fine Art, Paris-based Nil Gallery, celebrated San Francisco gallery Hashimoto Contemporary, southern tastemakers David Lusk Gallery and JONATHAN FERRARA GALLERY, Brooklyn favorite Walker Waugh, and top Los Angeles galleries Zevitas Marcus and Peter Mendenhall Gallery, among others.

Partners

Miami Project 5 renewed longstanding partnerships and cultivated new relationships with important cultural institutions and organizations including the Pérez Art Museum Miami, Asia Society, the Whitney Contemporaries, Miami International Film Festival, the Guggenheim, Bass Museum of Art, Boca Raton Museum of Art, ArtTable, the Metropolitan Museum of Art's Apollo Circle, Lowe Art Museum and many more, expanding the fair's ties to the local and national arts communities.

Official Online Partner

Artsy was the official online partner of Miami Project. As the leading resource for learning about and collecting art, Artsy provided a first look at the fair's important presentations of top modern and contemporary art and allowed users to explore exhibitor booths, save favorites, and make sales inquiries on available artworks before the fair's official opening in Miami Beach on Artsy.net and the Artsy app.
